HIGHWAY MEN STRIKE AGAINST SPOILS SYSTEM

Laborers Walk Out, Protesting Loss of Jobs with Political Change.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 14—Unclassified employes in the state highway department's seven-county Division 9 went on strike today against the political spoils system and Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer said they probably would be replaced.

"We will undoubtedly place additional men in the unclassified jobs to keep up maintenance," Shaffer stated. "It has always been the custom to change jobs with the change of administration," he added.

Shaffer said reports indicated only Jackson, Ross and Pike county operations had been affected to any marked degree by the walk-out. Other counties in the district are Brown, Adams, Scioto and Lawrence.

Pickets were assigned to highway garages at Chillicothe, Ironton, Hillsboro, Jackson, Waverly and other points in Division Nine where the strikers are employed.

The strikers, members of the AFL Ohio State Employes' Council, voted to walk out last night at Waverly after conference here between Samuel A. Anderson, union executive secretary, Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, and highway department officials. In the conferences the union failed in its attempt to assure employes job tenure despite Ohio's recent change to a Republican administration.

"Keep Jobs Safe from Politics"

At Waverly, Troy Hunter, financial steward, declared:

"We are not striking against salaries, hours or any other working arrangement. We are striking to keep our jobs safe from politics."

Anderson quoted Governor Herbert as saying he was "abiding by the rules of the political game and rules which had been accepted for years." Herbert admitted the remark to reporters.

Hunter asserted the union would remain on strike until some agreement was reached. Anderson declared that the ultimate aim of the strikers would be to receive civil service status through which changing administrations could not endanger their jobs. Those jobs, he said, were the "lowest paid and meanest of any in the state."

The strikers are laborers whose average wage is 86 cents an hour. The governor also was quoted as saying that his first obligation was to the "88 Republican

PPEALS COURT GETS ST PORTAL PAY SUIT

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 14—Employes the Mt. Clemens Pottery Co. day appealed to the circuit court appeals in Cincinnati the historic decision denying them portal portal pay.

The move is the first step in y appeal to the U. S. supreme urt.

Frank A. Picard, U. S. district dge, denied the pottery employes rtal pay last month in a decision that dealt a harsh blow to nerican labor's nearly $6,000,000,000 portal pay claim against dustry.

He said then that he hoped his cision would eventually be reewed by the high court in a tal test.

Edward Lamb, attorney for the ttery workers, filed notice of e appeal with George M. Read, erk of the district court here.

In moving the case to the circit court, Lamb renewed objections he made in district court to e intervention in the case of the S. attorney general.

John F. Sonnett, assistant U. S. torney general, intervened in case after the government exssed alarm over the possible plications of a decision by Judge rd favoring the workers.

However, Judge Picard ruled portal time in the suburban Clemens plant was too trifling warrant reimbursement for the ployes.

e emphasized that he was not ing out all portal suits, but en that, if reversed in the Mt. mens case, he felt no damages uld be awarded prior to last e when the supreme court inted the portal pay issue into a e that began as a simple claim the pottery employes for overe.

Pair Near Collapse After Discovering $92,800 in Cellar

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, March 14—A $75-a-week bookkeeper and his wife were reported on the verge of nervous collapse today after finding $92,800 in a corrugated cardboard box in a dark, dusty corner of their cellar.

The bookkeeper, Benjamin Lieberman, 44, went to the cellar in search of light bulbs, reached for a grimy box, idly opened it and pulled out a cache of cash in $10, $20 and $50 bills.

Lieberman called police. Now they and the Liebermans are trying to find out who owns the money. Turned over to Director of Public Safety James H. Malone, the treasure was locked in a bank safe deposit box.

Secret service agents noted the bills were federal reserve notes originating in Philadiphia, New York and Boston. Efforts will be made to trace them by their serial numbers.

Detective Lieut. Frank May, who responded to the Lieberman's call to police, placed the family under guard in their South Philadelphia home "for their own protection."

Detective Sgt. Charles Steinberg, assigned to the house overnight, reported "the Liebermans are both in a highly nervous state of mind. They are not in bed, but they are unable to talk to anyone about the money."

Employed by a milk company, Lieberman has lived in the house where the treasure was found for 25 years. Last fall when Lieberman was in a hospital the home was unoccupied for sometime.

MARION DRAFT BOOKS READY

Boards Here Set To Comply With Order To Hold Lists Till June 30.

Selective service records for Marion county are intact and are being kept by the county's three draft boards, board clerks said today, following reports from Washington that a senate committee yesterday voted to hold all draft records in local boards until June 30 because of the unsteady world situation.

The committee approved expenditure of an extra $2,000,000 to maintain records locally rather than consolidate the selective system.

Two factors were mentioned by Chairman Chan Gurney (R-SD) an influencing the committee's decision.

One was the possibility that universal training will be considered by congress this spring and such a program would require local records

Secondly, Gurney pointed out, "it would keep the offices open in case the world situation gets critical and we have to reopen the selective service records."

President Truman had advocated consolidating records in state centers as an economy measure. Maintaining local records will require 5,000 employes compared with 1,200 estimated needed under a state center plan.

Two Draft Offices Here

Marion county's three selective service boards have not drafted anyone since last September but have confined their activities to registering 18-year-olds and veterans and in aiding ex-servicemen who have complaints concerning reemployment, according to board clerks.

Board No. 1 is located at 133½ West Center street. Board 2 moved from quarters in the Marion building to join Board No. 3 in the Palace theater building last October. The two boards are located in the same office and employ the same clerk, although they still operate as separate units.

Although any person wanting to join the service must now enlist, the boards are still active in registering boys coming of draft age and veterans just released. There are also reports and surveys to be made to state selective service headquarters. It is expected that registering of 18-year-olds will continue to March 31.

Job Rights Protected

Another function of selective service is in seeing that reemployment and seniority rights guaranteed veterans by law are obtained by them. Each board has a reemployment committeeman who investigates any complaints. They are Fred G. Patton, Board No. 1; H. E. Webster, Board No. 2; and J. H. Maish, Board No. 3.

Draft boards include the following members: Board No. 1, Henry P. Drake, chairman, Fred G. Patton, Fred H. Morrison and Paul G. Boyd; No. 2, J. J. Zuck, chairman, A. H. Exton, J. R. Smith and R. H. Robinson; No. 3, Dan LaMarche, chairman and Ray Gatewood.

Board No. 1 has jurisdiction over city wards No. 1, 2 and 3; No. 2 covers wards 4, 5 and 6; No. 3 over rural Marion county.

Marshall Tells Big 4 Freedom From Fear Vital To Democracy

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 14—Secretary Marshall bluntly told the conference ministers today that the United States does not consider a society democratic if men who "respect the rights of their fellow men are not free to express their own beliefs and convictions without fear that they may be snatched away from their home and family."

Marshall was speaking on the need for democratization of Germany, but his comment, coming on top of President Truman's declarations against totalitarianism in Greece, heavily stressed the American stand for other parts of the world.

"To us," said the American secretary, "a society is not free if law-abiding citizens live in fear of being denied the right to work, or of being deprived of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Makes 2 Other Points

1. Eighty of 117 war production plants in the American zone of Germany are 100 per cent liquidated.

2. The United States now holds only 15,103 Nazi prisoners of war, mostly in Italy, while 15,873 more are rapidly being discharged in the American zone of Germany.

Soviet Minister Molotov announced that figures on prisoners of war held by the Russians would be circulated among the delegations tonight.

The foreign ministers agreed to take up tomorrow the thorny questions of displaced persons and territorial reorganization of Germany.

Meanwhile prospects dimmed for Big Three talks concerning the Chinese crisis, with China present, despite Russian insistence. An authoritative source said China was not likely to agree to participate. (In Nanking, the foreign office announced refusal to participate).

The Chinese maneuvers, starting with Molotov's written request for such conferences last night, shared keen interest among the western delegations with a whopping Izvestia editorial, which in the first real Russian reaction to President Truman's message about Greece and Turkey, virtually accused him of breaking United Nations obligations and of trying to grab the two countries.

The impression was growing strongly that Soviet and U. S. competition for world leadership was boiling down to naked power diplomacy in which China, Greece or Turkey, are or may become points of conflict such as eastern Europe has long been.

The force of Soviet feeling was shown by the blunt words the editorial applied to Truman. It is very unusual for an official Soviet publication to talk harshly about the head of a state, no matter how they lambast lesser lights.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov was disclosed last night to have sent notes to U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin asking them for an informal discussion of the Chinese situation.

Marshall, it was learned, planned to reply that he was willing to exchange reports on China in line with the Big Three's Moscow agreement of Dec. 19, 1945—but only if China participated. Bevin, presumably, would take a similar line.

Cong. Smith On Air With Tennesseean

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Republican of the Eighth Ohio district, and Congressman Albert Gore, Democrat, of Tennessee, will be heard in a discussion of United States aid to Greece, broadcast over a Columbia Broadcasting system hookup tonight at 6:15, according to a dispatch from Washington today.

Although no stations were listed, it is probable that WJR, Detroit, Columbia's major outlet for Marion and vicinity, will carry the broadcast.

Absences Still High in Schools

Only One Closed in County; State Health Director Not Alarmed.

Schools in Marion county, with the exception of Green Camp carried on with classes today, and St. Mary Parochial school here also convened this morning although a large number of absences were reported, most of them caused by colds and influenza.

Despite school closings in many communities throughout the state, Ohio Health Director Dr. Roger E. Heering said official reports from local health officers did not indicate they were alarmed about the effect of influenza on schools.

Marion public schools were closed today after board of education members deemed it advisable on Thursday, and the Green Camp school was closed both Thursday and Friday due largely to the number of teachers absent. All will reopen for classes Monday.

The South Elementary school in Delaware was also closed until Monday, according to a report They had 65 absent out of the 190 enrolled.

Pleasant township school, which has the largest enrollment in Marion county, reported 45 pupils absent today, which is 14 per cent of the total. However, officials there said the absence percentage is not as large as it was the first of the week.

At St. Mary school, 86 out of a total of 440 were absent today which is 18.5 per cent of the enrollment. However, the belief was that a large number of absences were due to pupils misunderstanding a report that city schools would be closed today, which did not pertain to the St. Mary school. A number of the pupils have returned who were absent the first of the week.

Ohio Students Suspended For Sympathy Walkout

By The Associated Press

CIRCLEVILLE, O., March 14—Eighteen students of Derby High school were under suspension today after staging a one-day walkout in sympathy with students of the West Jefferson High school.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway county schools, said the 18—10 girls and eight boys—would be permitted to return to classes Monday if they brought a written pledge of good behavior, counter-signed by parents.

He said the students had no special grievance against Derby high. The West Jefferson students struck Tuesday against disciplinary and grading practices.

COLUMBUS, O., March 14—Liquor Enforcement Chief William Kelch reported today that a personal spot check of 14 Toledo taverns with two inspectors last night disclosed no pin ball machines in the establishments.

AID TO GREECE APPROVAL SEEN

Opponents Can Only Impose Minor Restrictions, Is Belief.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14—President Truman's bid for American help for Greece and Turkey gained such momentum in congress today that opposition seemed likely to be confined to only a rear guard action aimed at narrowing the terms.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt), who has yet to make up his mind on pitting direct financial and limited military assistance against Communist pressures in the Mediterranean area, summed up the situation to a reporter this way:

"It looks like there isn't much congress can do but go along with the President in this crisis."

Similarly, Senator Connally (Tex), top Democrat on the foreign relations committee, predicted that Mr. Truman's proposal "will pass both houses by a large majority."

As senate Republicans gathered in a party conference to hear Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the foreign relations committee, report on President Truman's personal appeal to congress Wednesday, there was evidence that the Aiken and Connally views were shared by some Republican leaders.

One of these noted that the President has wide latitude in the field of foreign relations and that his publicly announced commitment to go into Greece and Turkey could be reversed by congress only if it chose to withhold funds.

But this Republican said any such action seemed likely to be interpreted in Moscow as a display of American weakness, a result he said he would regret to see despite his reluctance to approve military as well as financial action.

For that reason this G.O.P. leader said congress has little choice but to go along with the President.

An indication of the air of tension prevailing in congress was provided meanwhile by the action of the senate armed services committee in deciding to keep selective service records where they are for at least three months.

The original plan proposed by Mr. Truman after his decision to let the draft cut expire March 31, was to have local boards ship their papers to state capitals.

BURGLARY CLOSES SCHOOL AT IBERIA

Safe in Superintendent's Office Reported "Blown" Open.

IBERIA, March 14—A breakin at the Washington-Bloomfield school here last night or early today in which a safe in the superintendent's office was reported "blown" open, closed the school today while an investigation was being conducted.

Morrow County Sheriff Tom England declined to comment on details of the breakin until after the investigation. Fred Dengler of the bureau of investigation, London Prison farm, was called to assist with the investigation and take fingerprints.

Several windows in the school building were reported broken and Superintendent Earl E. Bowman dismissed classes this morning because he said it was too cold for the pupils.

SOVIET ENVOY STARTS HOME. Nikolai V. Novikov, Soviet ambassador to the United States, waves from a ramp bearing a Scandinavian airlines insignia as he leaves New York by plane enroute to Moscow. Novikov said he was returning under "special orders" from his government and hoped to come back to Washington "as soon as possible." He added that he had not yet read President Truman's message to congress on a loan to Greece and Turkey.

GROUP STUDIES TEACHERS' PAY

Federation Committee Reports on Examination of Board of Education Records.

A five-member committee of the Marion Federation of Teachers (AFL), after completing a study of salaries of Marion school employes, today said that although it was the intention of the board of education to abide by a salary schedule, actually salaries are farther away from any schedule than they were in 1940-41.

The committee, headed by LeMoyne Green, teacher at Edison Junior High school, was elected by the federation to investigate board of education records after a proposed investigating committee to be composed of four representatives from the Civic Planning association, one from the Marion Education association and one from the Marion Federation of Teachers, failed to materialize

The committee's report was presented by Mr Green to approximately 75 teachers at a meeting of the Federation Tuesday in Harding High school.

Say Schedule Not Maintained

The committee reported the examination of salaries for school employes showed the board had not maintained a set salary schedule.

A comparison of salaries paid during 1940-41 with those paid in 1946-47 showed the following percentages of increase, according to the committee's report: janitors, 51 per cent; superintendent of buildings and grounds, 58 per cent; secretaries, 89 per cent; superintendent, 25 per cent; clerk, none; substitutes, high school, from 40 per cent to 62 per cent; elementary, 50 per cent to 81 per cent; elementary principals, from

SAY SPIRIT OF UN VIOLATED

Newspaper Holds Truman By-Passed Security Council To "Meddle."

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 14 — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia accused the United States today of interfering in the internal affairs of Greece and Turkey and of behaving in a manner that could not have been expected from a member of the United Nations.

It was the first real Russian editorial reaction to President Truman's speech to congress Wednesday urging U. S. aid for Greece and Turkey.

"In Washington," said the editorial, which was eagerly read by foreign delegates to the Big Four foreign ministers conference, "they obviously do not want to consider the obligations adopted by the United States government before the United Nations organization.

"Expressing unusual nervousness, President Truman did not even deem it necessary to wait for the results of the work of the security council's commission sent to Greece to determine the situation there."

Delegates, and this certainly must have included U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, read in this attack on Wednesday's presidential request for $400,000,000 to aid Greece and Turkey that the United States "desires to go over the head of the United Nations."

From one end of Moscow to the other this editorial, which in size alone was one of the longest to appear in many months — it stretched from the masthead to the bottom of the front page through two columns—was read with avid interest by all who could get a copy and read Russian or prevail upon the already burdened translators to read it to them.

Official translations were reported under preparation for the principal delegates.

WALLACE SAYS POLICY WILL SPREAD COMMUNISM

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 14—Henry A. Wallace, former cabinet member, predicts that the policy advocated by President Truman in his speech to congress Wednesday "will spread Communism in Europe and Asia."

"When President Truman proclaims the worldwide conflict between east and west, he is telling the Soviet leaders that we are preparing for eventual war," the editor of New Republic magazine said in a radio broadcast last night.

"Russia may be poor and unprepared for war but she knows very well how to reply to Truman's declaration of economic and financial pressure," Wallace said.

MAY PREVENT NEW WAR, SAYS CHURCHILL

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 14—Winston Churchill, commenting on President Truman's appeal for U. S. aid to Greece and Turkey, said today: "No step that I have seen taken lately has more increased the chance of the maintenance of world peace and world freedom."

"If such a step had been taken by the United States before the last war it would have stopped it," Britain's wartime prime minister declared. "If it had been taken after the first war, still more would it have stopped it."

De Havilland, March Win Academy Awards But Handless Vet Steals Presentation Show

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, March 14—Fredric March was chosen the best actor of the year, Olivia De Havilland was named the best actress—but handless Harold Russell stole the show at last night's 19th annual presentation of awards by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Russell, the veteran with the hooks in the "Best Years of Our Lives," which won the "best picture" award, went home with two Oscars tucked under his arm.

His "Best Years" role, his first in motion pictures, brought him academy acclaim as the best supporting actor, and a special award by the academy's board of directors. The board did not know he would win the supporting award, because results were kept in a sealed envelope until announcements were made from the stage.

It was March's role in "The Best Years of Our Lives," depicting problems of returned veterans, which won him the Oscar, while Miss DeHavilland took home the coveted statuette for her performance in "To Each His Own."

March was not present to receive his Oscar. He is in a New York stage production and his statuette was accepted by Cathy O'Donnell, Russell's sweetheart in "Best Years."

Miss DeHavilland, gowned in a strapless light blue tulle, said she intended to place her Oscar on a table in her bedroom.

"But I don't know," she said, "whether my husband (novelist Marcus Goodrich) will object to having another man in my bedroom."

Other major awards went to Anne Baxter, for her supporting role in "The Razor's Edge," and to the director of "Best Years," William Wyler.

Miss DeHavilland's sister, Joan Fontaine, former award winner, presented March's Oscar, Ray Milland, who won an Oscar last year for "The Lost Weekend," presented Olivia's award.

Joan and Olivia have not been too friendly in recent years, but Joan was waiting backstage after the presentations, apparently to see her sister. Reporters and photographers agree that Joan did not congratulate Oliva because she did not have an opportunity. Olivia, they said, started to walk toward Joan and then turned away without comment. A few minutes earlier, however, Miss Fontaine exclaimed, "Isn't it wonderful—between us we've had six nominations."

Master of Ceremonies Jack Benny, introducing Milland to the capacity crowd of 6,700 in the Shrine auditorium, said "Phil Harris could have played the 'Lost Weekend' better than Milland—

Ohio Film Starlet Says It's Serious with Hughes

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 14—Film starlet Jean Peters, 20, of Canton, O., was wearing a striking ring of diamonds and sapphires on her engagement finger when she appeared in court for approval of a movie contract and it provoked the question of whether she and Howard Hughes are "serious" about each other.

"I guess so—oh yes, it's serious—it's serious with both of us," Miss Peters told reporters after the $300-a-week contract was approved yesterday.

Asked if she and the millionaire maker of planes, oil tools and movies plan marriage, she replied: "It hasn't been discussed and, after all, I'm still a little young, don't you think?"

Besides, said the former Ohio State university coed and beauty contest winner, the ring was only a birthday present and won't fit any other finger.

Hughes could not be reached for comment.

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world." Galatians 6:14.

THE thought expressed in this verse is, let others glory in religious ceremonies, etc., that are only for show. I will glory in the cross of Christ, not a cross of wood or earthly materials which are the works of man's hands, but I will glory in the atonement made for sin through the death and resurrection of Christ.

This atonement included freedom from sin (all sin). He was crucified to the world. His desires, ambitions, appetites, had been made pure. His affections were set on higher things. This was the results of his marvelous conversion, and sanctified experience. Thus the new birth brings glory, and holiness of heart that follows self crucifixion, brings abundance of glory.

REV. DENNIS R. MATHERLEE,
Pastor, First Wesleyan Methodist Tabernacle.

A total of 996 acres of Claridon township farm land will be brought under soil and water conservation practices of the U. S. A request for assistance in establishing soil and water conservation practices, submitted by Floyd Cluff of Grand Prairie township, was approved.

The board discussed a ditch cleaning project in Bowling Green and Green Camp townships, and the obtaining of title and a ditching machines for use by cooperators in the district.

GIRL SUFFERS BURNS AS FIRE RAZES HOUSE

In Bucyrus Hospital Following Blaze in Wyandot Co.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, March 14—Dolores Elliott, 18, is recovering in city hospital from first degree burns suffered on the hands, legs and lower part of her body in a kerosene explosion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Elliot, route 5 Upper Sandusky, which destroyed the seven room frame home, Tuesday.

Miss Elliot said she was burned when she tossed a rag into the kitchen stove, after she had used it to wipe up kerosene which had spilled on the floor.

Going to an upstairs room to change clothing after extinguishing the flames of her burning garments, she returned downstairs to find the entire lower floor in flames. She escaped the building by lowering herself by a rope of blankets from an upstairs window.

Mr. Elliott, a tenant farmer, was engaged in farm duties away from the house at the time and Mrs. Elliott was caring for an ill neighbor. Other children of the family were in school.

CHINA

Molotov, after receiving the Marshall and Bevin responses, was expected to invite China to designate a representative to take part in the talks, but whether the Nanking government would agree in view of declarations already made was highly uncertain, and rejection of such an invitation would be no surprise.

A Chinese embassy source said today the embassy here had not received any invitation or other notification from the Soviet Union regarding the proposed talks but had been informed of the proposal "through other sources."

A Soviet radio broadcast last night, confirming earlier reports of the Molotov notes, said nothing about an invitation to China but did not bar such a possibility.

Report China To Spurn Talks on Internal Crisis

By The Associated Press

NANKING, March 14—It was learned authoritatively today that the Chinese government would refuse to accept a proposal by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov that the Big Three hold talks on the China crisis, with China present.

A proposal to exchange reports on China in line with the Big Three's Moscow agreement of Dec. 19, 1945, was said to be unacceptable because China was not a party to the agreement and because it involved China's internal problems.

Hobby Club Devotes Meeting to Stamps

A meeting of the Marion Hobby club Thursday night at the Y.M. C.A. was devoted exclusively to stamps. The members brought items of interest from their collections and these, together with current stamp news, were discussed informally. An interesting collector's item was a photostatic copy of an original letter written by Daniel Boone to his sister-in-law on the occasion of the death of her husband, Samuel Boone, in 1816. The copy, the original of which is in a collection belonging to an historic society in Madison, Wis., is the property of Mrs. S. L. Leeka, a descendant of the Boone family.

Dr. F. A. Stengel described the new five-cent airmail stamp which will go on sale first in Washington, D. C., on March 26. The center design is a modern type four-motor transport plane in flight. The stamp, he said, will not go on general sale until the present issues are disposed of. He also called attention to errors in the new stamp which are dots in the center of both the "D" and "O" in United States of America. Very few of these have been found, he stated.

Churches Sponsor Clothing Drive

Plans for a united drive for clothing for overseas relief in the post-Easter period, backed by the Marion County Council of Churches, have been announced by Rev. Eldred Johnston, president of the council. It is requested that all churches in the county cooperate in this drive which will continue through the three weeks following Easter, Rev. Johnston stated.

Each church has been asked to cooperate by informing its people of the critical need; by leaving church doors open all day for three Sundays following Easter so that people can bring their donations; by picking up donations which the donor cannot bring to the church; by boxing and shipping all donations brought to that particular church.

Church World Service, the coordinating relief agency, has recently published a report showing that only one out of 1,000 persons in Asia or Europe has had any new garment in the last year, while most of them have had no new garment for three years. Church people are asked to compare this with the report that in 1946, Americans spent $1,300,000,000 for jewelry alone.

The slogan of the three-week united clothing drive will be: "In honor of our risen Lord!"

CLEVELAND LABOR DISPUTE IN COURTS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 14—One dispute reached the courts while a federal labor agency attempted to effect settlement in another as Judge Frank J. Merrick set hearing today on a petition for an injunction to restrain officers of District 54, International Association of Machinists, from picketing the Lloyd P. Cox automobile agency.

Windows in the plate glass showroom of the agency were smashed last night while earlier in the day an employe was slugged and a picket was arrested.

The injunction petition alleged that the International is conducting an illegal strike at the agency, has placed more pickets out; that customers are molested and intimidated, and employes; that no dispute with the workers existed and that the company offered to agree to a representation election conducted by a federal labor conciliator.

A company spokesman who declined use of his name said the union refused the concern's offer and that workers held a meeting and decided not to have anything to do with the union.

A disturbance on the picket line also featured a strike of 250 members of the CIO-United Electrical Workers at the V. D. Anderson Co. The workers walked out in support of demands for a 25 cents hourly wage increase. No one was injured.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Migraine

Migraine, that puzzling disorder which produces the most agonizing of all headaches, is mysterious also in this: It sends to some of its victims a forewarning of its coming. Others it strikes as if out of a blue sky. An attack may begin with the morning awakening or it may start suddenly and unexpectedly at any hour of the day.

In the first stage, headache is usually not present. Instead the afflicted person may feel dizzy, light-headed or sick to the stomach. Visual disturbances are common and of many different types. Some patients become almost blind while others see only one-half of the objects they look at. Still others are tormented by flickering lights, or flashes of bright color. After ten to thirty minutes of this sort of thing the headache begins its sledge-hammer onslaughts.

The pain is like deep stabbing or boring, spreading from the front of the head to the back. Sickness to the stomach becomes worse and there may be vomiting. The headache is made worse by movement, noise or light.

In most instances the headache is limited to one side. Sometimes there is flushing of one side of the face. After a varying period of time, the attack passes off leaving the patient tired and exhausted. He often falls asleep and on awakening feels well again until another attack occurs. Such things as domestic and business worries and emotional upsets seem to be factors which aid in bringing on attacks.

The exact cause of migraine is still not known. It has been ascribed to disturbances of the circulation to the brain, to allergy or over-sensitivity, to irritation of the nervous system as a result of eye strain, stomach upset and the like. In some cases it is thought that liver and gallbladder diseases may have some relationship to the sickness. The glands of internal secretion might also play a part in this disorder.

Mild attacks of migraine may be relieved with rest and the taking of some simple pain-relieving drug such as aspirin. In the more severe attacks the patient is put to bed in a darkened room. An ice bag may be applied to help the headache. A drug known as ergotamine tartrate given by injection into a muscle or taken by mouth, but only under the doctor's direction, gives dramatic relief in some instances. If this drug fails attempts may be made to secure sleep with any of the various preparations employed for this purpose, which the physician will prescribe.

Herbert, School Heads Discuss Differences

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, O., March 14 — Gov. Thomas J. Herbert and state school leaders yesterday discussed differences in his budget recommendations and school bills now before the Ohio legislature.

Herbert said the school officials and he agreed that present rates in the Daniels-Cramer school proposal would throw Columbus, Akron and Canton into the additional aid class of school districts, creating an undesirable condition.

The group met behind closed doors in the state house here, but Herbert said they discussed whether the one-third boost in present rates for elementary and high schools as recommended by the budget would accomplish adequate financing.

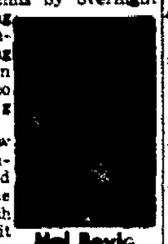
George Washington Slept in Bahamas, Also

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, March 14—Nassau highlights:

Yes, George Washington slept here, too.

Years before he laid a firm financial foundation for antique New England inns by overnight stopovers during the revolutionary war, young Washington came here to visit a dying brother.



Hal Boyle

If he came now during the winter season and put up at the swank British colonial hotel it would cost him $32 a day up—way up—for an ocean view.

One of the biggest real estate developments in the Nassau area during the last decade was launched just before the war by Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish multi-millionaire industrialists.

He is the largest landowner on Hog island, site of famous Paradise beach, and is expected shortly to resume construction on "Paradise town," a cluster of expensive villas near his own magnificent mansion, "Shangri-La."

In 1941, before he was put on the Allied blacklist, Wenner-Gren was the largest employer of Bahamian labor.

The trading ban was lifted after the war and Wenner-Gren, who is personnally popular with many social leaders of this British colony, will resume winter residence there. He has been active in Mexico recently.

Nassau, which is only 70 minuets by clipper from Miami, has harvested its best tourist crop since the war.

Among those reported seeking winter homes here are lord Beaverbrook, London publisher, and Kenneth Roberts, American historical novelist.

A number of movie stars—Cornel Wilde, William Powell, Joan Blondell and Bruce Cabot—also came to escape the rigorous Southern California climate and learned to sign autograph books with an English accent.

Tourists here fall into two classes — the excursionists from the New York steamers who come ashore for a few hours to buy souvenirs and sample the rum at Dirty Dick's bar, and the stop-overs, who usually remain for a week or month.

The excursionists get only a glimpse of the real social life of Nassau as there are few night-clubs. The colony is quite and somewhat clannish. It is also on the dressy side, and "sunburned Nellies" are encouraged to do all their barebacked parading at the beach instead of in town. A visitor here without formal dress would be as lonesome as Robinson Crusoe without his Friday.

Most of the night entertainment consists of riding "the cocktail circuit"—a never-ending series of home parties given each evening by winter residents for friends with whom they fried on the beach during the afternoon.

"Nassau goes light on noise and heavy on outdoor romance," said one developer here. Like Palm Beach dwellers, the habitues of Nassau get the dry heaves over the suggestion that the colony will ever become "A Miami Beach or winter Coney island."

The present price scale should keep it fairly exclusive.

Strolling native troubadors give the island a medieval romantic touch at night.

They go in pairs—one singing an old Bahamian love song, one strumming a guitar—and serenade young visiting couples. They follow behind you until you toss them a shilling. Then they trail another couple.

There is no No. 13 among Nassau's 140 strapping black policemen.

There used to be. No. 13 got mad one day because another policeman was promoted to corporal instead of him.

He wrapped some dynamite sticks around his waist under his blouse and went to call on the police chief to deliver an ultimatum. But he got his wires crossed before he reached the office. No. 13 lapsed. They've never used the number since.

Biggest mystery in Nassau history is the still unsolved bludgeon murder of Sir Harry Oakes, immensely wealthy mining man who came here from Canada because the Bahamas have no income tax.

"And if they pass one I'll go someplace else," the eccentric millionaire used to say.

Natives say they know who killed Sir Harry and that the conscience of the killer will finally bring out the truth.

"He gon' talk it out sometime," they say. Police would like him to open the conversation now.

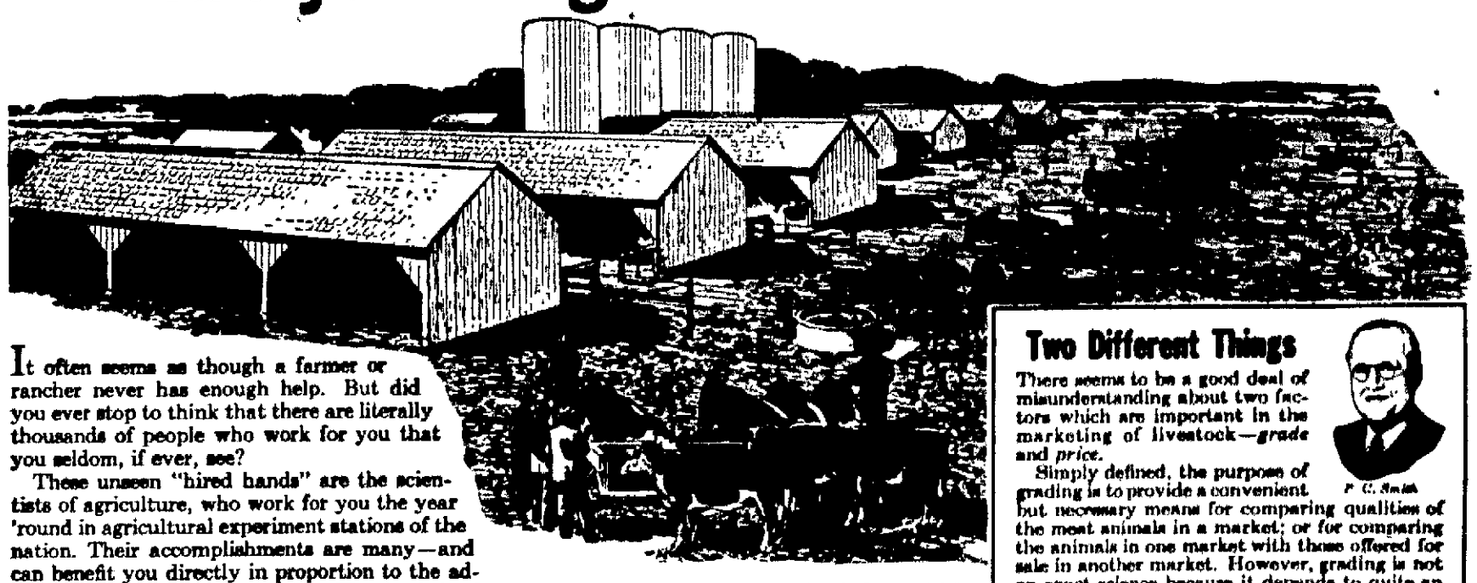
Are you using these "hired hands"?



It often seems as though a farmer or rancher never has enough help. But did you ever stop to think that there are literally thousands of people who work for you that you seldom, if ever, see?

These unseen "hired hands" are the scientists of agriculture, who work for you the year 'round in agricultural experiment stations of the nation. Their accomplishments are many—and can benefit you directly in proportion to the advantage you take of their services. They've helped increase productivity of the land, helped develop better-yielding crops, better livestock and poultry. Yet, never satisfied that perfection has been reached, the experiment stations continue to explore the possibilities of further aid to agriculture.

The experiment stations in the 48 states are to the business of agriculture what our research laboratories are to Swift & Company. It is in the research laboratory that we put science to work for us, to improve our products and our business. It costs us money—but we consider it money well spent. Farmers and ranchers are indeed fortunate to have much of their research work done for them—and paid for out of public funds derived from taxes.

We like to think of these agricultural experiment stations as a vast bank of valuable scientific knowledge. To maintain the assets of this bank, millions of dollars from this year's $1,235,055,000 budget of the United States Department of Agriculture go to the various state experiment stations, to conduct experiments sponsored by the U. S. D. A. In addition, about $12,000,000 is provided by the states to staff and maintain the stations. Remember, this is your bank from which you can make withdrawals of real value any time you wish. Information is available on any subject relating to farming or ranching. Direct your request either to the Dept. of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or to your own state college, state experiment station or extension service. If you do not have the address, ask your county agent or vocational agriculture teacher. Or write to us at Swift & Company, Department A-5, Chicago 9, Illinois.

Two Different Things

P. C. Smith

There seems to be a good deal of misunderstanding about two factors which are important in the marketing of livestock—grade and price.

Simply defined, the purpose of grading is to provide a convenient but necessary means for comparing qualities of the meat animals in a market; or for comparing the animals in one market with those offered for sale in another market. However, grading is not an exact science because it depends to quite an extent on the judgment of the person doing the buying or selling. Grades are standards which take into consideration the sex, weight, quality, conformation and finish of animals.

Now, let's have a look at price. Price is not a factor in determining grade. Just because some animals are in a higher grade does not mean that they always will sell for a higher price than animals in a lower grade. For example, it happens at times that a medium grade of cattle sells for as much or more than a good grade. Such a condition may come about when there is a heavy demand for, but only a light supply of, medium cattle; while on the same day a big supply and a light demand of good grade cattle will not bring so high a price.

The same situation may exist in the case of lambs. In communities where racial customs affect eating habits, there are times when carcasses of lightweight, thin, lean lambs sell for as much as the fat, well-finished, choice type. Again the law of supply and demand is in action.

Always remember that price and grade are two different things. Try to think of each separately, and we believe you will have a much clearer and truer picture of grading and marketing of livestock.

P. C. Smith, Vice President In Charge of Beef, Lamb, Veal

J. L. Tennant

SIZE OF BUSINESS

by J. L. Tennant
Rhode Island State College

A farm business should be large enough to pay operating costs, interest on the investment, and family living expenses. A southern New England dairy farm, for example, should have at least 18 cows per man; a poultry farm, 1,500 layers; a market-garden farm, 10 acres; a potato farm, 40 acres; and an apple farm, 20 acres.

Doing more business with the same capital investment is one way to lower costs and higher profits. With the larger business, the operator can spend more of his time at productive work. For example, workers on a dairy farm with 9 to 10 cows per man will be just as busy as on a farm with 15 to 18 cows per man. The gross sales and net income on the larger operation will be much higher because more of the time is used in producing milk. Reducing costs per unit puts the farm operator in a stronger competitive position.

If more crop land cannot be bought, perhaps it can be rented. Another plan is to check means by which crop production on present acreage can be increased. Ways to do this include: the use of lime and fertilizer; winter cover crops; higher yielding varieties; double cropping; drainage and terracing.

Another step toward efficiency is to install modern equipment which enables one person to produce more per hour. Overhead costs per unit of product can be lowered when each machine is used profitably for as many hours as possible.

A Big Market of Little People

A new outlet for meat has been developed! Hundreds of thousands of "little people" in America, the babies of the nation, are now eating meat. Swift's Meats for Babies and Juniors are specially prepared for them. These new products give today's babies a better chance than ever before for robust health and full physical development.

The better the food, the better the baby! That's why doctors are so enthusiastic about Swift's Meats for Babies. They know that meat provides complete, high-quality proteins, the essential body-builders—iron, the blood-builder—and needed vitamins in natural form. They know, too, that these vital food elements in meat are most important when babies are young—actually building their bodies. And so, many doctors are recommending Swift's Meats for Babies and Juniors—strained for the very young and diced for older children.

This is but one example of the many ways Swift's research, distribution and promotion contributes to the nation's nutrition and build new markets for the products of your farm and ranch.

Martha Logan's Recipe for
BEEF GOULASH

2 pounds beef chuck	1 clove garlic
¼ cup flour	1 teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons fat	2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1½ cups water	½ teaspoon sage
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce	1 teaspoon caraway seed (optional)
½ cup celery leaves	1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Cut beef into chunks and roll in flour. Melt fat in skillet. Brown meat well. Add remaining ingredients. Cover skillet and cook slowly for 3½ hours, or until tender. (Yield: 6 servings.)

Things are NOT always as they seem

Which of the two shapes shown at left is the larger? The white one or the black one? The white one certainly appears to be bigger. But actually they are exactly the same size.

In the livestock-meat industry, too, things are not always as they seem. For example, sometimes people think of Swift's total profits as being large. Yet the actual fact is that in 1946 dividend payments to shareholders were less than 4% on the shareholders' investment; the company's net earnings from all sources were 1½¢ per dollar of sales . . . only a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled. That seems to be doing business on a mighty narrow margin—and it is!

Mr. Truman's Speech

A JOINT session of congress has heard what events have compelled President Truman to acknowledge: that the United States is the only power on earth able to resist the Soviet Union's mischief in Greece and Turkey.

Therefore, concludes Mr. Truman, the United States must help those nations defend their sovereignty—not because their existing governments are perfect but because they are the only bulwark against the spread of totalitarianism; i. e., communism.

This statement, falling little short of a declaration of war on Russia, has been forthcoming for many days. Yet, Americans have drifted into acceptance of a condition of open hostility toward Russia so gradually, it is hard to realize what has happened.

President Truman proposes in effect an extension of the Monroe Doctrine to the Mediterranean basin. Under that doctrine, the United States is pledged to resent and resist the attempt by any European power to spread its influence contrary to the best interests of the United States, formerly restricted to the new world.

His recommendation of military, financial and civil assistance to Greece and Turkey would make the United States responsible for the political and economic welfare of populations in the old world. The President holds that the security of the United States is a stake.

The threat of Russian dominance in Greece and Turkey, in his view, is only one aspect of the situation. Other populations may need similar intervention to protect them. "The free peoples of the world look to us for support in maintaining their freedom," Mr. Truman observes. "If we falter in our leadership, we may endanger the peace of the world—and we shall surely endanger the welfare of our own nation."

There will be some sincere exceptions to this too-easy solution of the difficult problem of persuading human beings that freedom is worth having.

Many Americans honestly doubt their government's ability to save Greece, Turkey, the rest of the Middle East and whatever other territories may be eyed by the salesmen of poltical terrorism. These Americans suspect that the consequences of trying to save every weak regime being readied for the alternative of a police state would be the progressive deterioration of the United States as a world power. It simply would spread its resources too thin to be of any real consequence.

THEY further suspect that by holding out the promise of rescue to every tottering government, including those which deserve to fall of their own weight, the United States might only perpetuate the corruption and bungling which have given the Kremlin's agents a chance to make so much apparent progress in Europe.

They conclude what the United States once concluded at the end of a sad and costly experiment with "dollar diplomacy" in the banana republics of Latin America: that democracy cannot be bestowed. It must come from the hearts and minds of people.

The United States is not going to stop the spread of Russian-dominated governments on Russia's perimeter by slapping on patches and sticking in plugs. Anyone who imagines that rescue missions and nine-digit subsidies can shore up political regimes too weak to stand up by themselves is behind on his history-reading. If Greece and Turkey can be made safe for democracy, it will be because Greeks and Turks want to be made safe for democracy.

In the meantime—and this is what President Truman has told congress—the United States is not going to let Russia win anything by default. This country will be busy in Greece and Turkey. What the President asks congress to approve is only an expansion of intervention already being practiced in those countries.

He makes an ingenious presentation of the cost involved, comparing it to one-tenth of one per cent of 341 billion dollars to secure the "investment" which the United States made in World War II. This is fatuous even for Mr. Truman. World War II was a disaster, not an investment, and one does not mitigate a disaster by adding to its cost.

What is now admitted is that the disaster did not clear the air. The United States is still fighting to put down the challenge of terrorism in countries whose governments are too weak for self-determination. The challenge has taken a new form, or rather it has taken a familiar form—international communism directed from Moscow.

The United States is willing to face the reality of open conflict with the Soviet Union. It has come to the end of its patience with appeasement. There are to be no more Munichs, no more Teherans, no more Potsdams. The Russian bluff, which isn't so much a bluff as a tactic of power politics, is being called.

It might mean war. Mr. Truman doesn't say so, but the implications are there, and they are pretty plain. Relations with Russia have not deteriorated; in fact, they may even have improved, on the assumption that the Stalin government respects nothing but naked force. The United States has served fair notice that it knows the score in Greece and Turkey and is in favor of doing something about it.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Republican Leaders Get Little on Scoreboard.

WASHINGTON, March 14—Why some Republican leaders are reaching for the whip is not difficult to ascertain. You can guess this one accurately from the scoreboard, which to date shows no runs, no hits, and innumerable errors.

Their congressional leadership is in danger of nullification, and this of course means nullification of democracy. The matter is no less important than that. The Trumanites (unions?) who look at the situation gleefully as a chance to ruin the election prestige of their adversaries need new glasses. The Republicans who think they can gain political prestige by appealing to class groups are no less blind.

The only development which could save this democracy is for the Republicans to get the chance for leadership which the people gave them in the last election. Otherwise there will be no leadership, only nullifying conflict at the helm.

Mr. Truman did not have to call off his vacation for a crisis in Greece. He has one here at home which would warrant attention.

If you do not believe me, look at the scoreboard on the gross Washington leadership to date.

The closing of the senate hearings normally would bring a report and bill on union reform within a week or ten days. Then will come long senate debate which reporters suspect cannot be concluded for three or more weeks. The house committee was late getting started for some reason, but has a plan to get its bill out there ahead of the senate. Also the debate there will be shorter. But after action is taken by the house, the two bills will go to conference (because both bills will not be exactly alike) and the final form will be wrangled out. Ultimately dispatched to the White House thereafter, the legislation faces prospect of veto and it may then return to both houses to pass over a veto.

Anyone who figures all this can be done within two months normally is taking liberty with reasonableness. It is more likely to require three or more.

The final form, as nearly everyone has guessed by now (although you read it first here last December and repeatedly since then,) is likely to follow the Case bill with some modifications, or what will be called the Ball-Taft-Smith bill this time. It will be practically the same as Mr. Truman vetoed last year before election, establishing government arbitraton boards.

Those in charge of congressional affairs judge much of the debate will center around the proposals to abolish the closed shop and the restrictions upon industrywide bargaining—both amendments of Minnesota's Senator Ball. One or both might be passed by one house, but the chances of either passing both houses is slim.

So while some Republican leaders are claiming the job they are doing in congress is unprecedentedly tremendous, they can hardly escape the conclusion that:

After all the current trouble and more coming, the result is apt to be just what was passed last session in a democratic congress and failed then by veto.

Look at the scoreboard again. They have pushed up near to final enactment and then stopped the bill limiting the presidency to two terms (a matter which could wait until 1950 at least before it could have any practical effect); also they have pushed abolition of the portal-to-portal backpay increases (incidentally labor did not object strenuously), and the proposed cuts in the budget. On the budget they have spent considerable time and patience on the theory that they should pare expenses before adopting a tax reduction.

Postpones Tax Reduction

This latter step naturally has had the effect of postponing tax reduction which many Republicans consider to be the swiftly needed key to economic advancement of the country, equal in importance almost to labor legislation. This proposed tax stimulation to economic activity has now run into the Truman promotion of more loans and relief to Europe. The question of loans has weakened some Republican backing for a 20 per cent cut and caused some congressmen privately to talk about 15 or 10 per cent or maybe even less.

Now I am informed with the utmost reliability, the Truman administration has not contemplated getting anything from abroad in return from the loans. Indeed high Democrats tell me they cannot get anything in return for the money—for instance any guarantees from Greece or Italy or the other nations which would promote our struggle to maintain our ideals in those nations against the growth of Communist and Russian interests, or any commitments. Apparently the administration policy has had the preliminary effect of blocking the planned Republican tax reduction without getting anything in return from abroad I know of, in the way of secret or public promises. This would seem to make American taxpayers suffer not only a loss in proposed tax reductions, but apparently continued loss of their interests abroad in the nations where Communism has been active politically in the minority.

Otherwise, as senate Republican Floor Leader White said in a speech inserted in the Record not long ago, the Republicans have been snowed in heavily with routine work. The trouble is you cannot put snow on the scoreboard.

Glorifying The Great American Cow-lick

According to the Beauticians Guild, more than a million men will get permanent waves in the U. S. this year.

Whatever became of the dude of yesterday, who was considered effeminate because he ran a comb through his moustache after eating?

Permanent waves for men? I can remember when thousands of tons of goose grease were sold annually to youths who otherwise might have been known as Curly.

Time was when the only male who knew anything about cold waves was the weatherman, when the average man had rather be caught patronizing a funeral than a beauty parlor.

Permanent waves are hard to reconcile with the usual conception of manhood, but at that they're better than having to put one's hair up in curlers every night before retiring.

Incidentally, speaking of hair, what's become of that sneak-snipper who was trimming the tresses of feminine street-car riders in Washington? Did he finally get that mattress stuffed?

Rules for Washington Police

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Courtesy is the first law to be observed by the long-armers of the Capitol police force, says their new captain, William J. Broderick.

W. J. Broderick

For 19 years a member of the Pennsylvania State police, Capt. Broderick figures that the people who come up too Capitol Hill, whether to legislate or just to look, help pay the salaries of the men on the force.

So it's got to be "yes sir, no sir, yes ma'm, no ma'm" all the time, and no wise cracks ever.

Lt. William Ballinger, a veteran policeman of 10 years' service, who instructed the rookies on the force, told them that they must be alert at all times.

He told them how to behave, how to dress, how to enforce regulations in the Capitol, in the senate and house office buildings and on the grounds surrounding these buildings.

Liquor Banned

Capt. Broderick, who came to Washington to head the force after four years in the Army, which included 20 months in the Aleutians, opened the brief training school the other night.

He told the men that drinking on the job would not be tolerated, that any man with liquor on his breath would be fired. He said that uniforms must always be neat, blouses must be buttoned and that hats must be worn straight on the head and not cocked to one side.

"And don't lay your pistols down—anywhere," he said. Lt. Ballinger recalled he had laid his down somewhere once and it took him two hours to find it—right where he had left it.

There are 142 men on the capitol police force. They get an average of $2,000 base pay with overtime and other allowances bringing it up to $2,909. They are divided into three shifts of eight hours each—8 a. m. to 4 p. m., 4 p. m. to midnight, midnight to 8 a. m.

Malcontents Troublesome

The hardest job his men have is handling an average of three or four persons a week who have a grudge against the government.

"They come to the Capitol to get even, any way they can," he said, "and they have to be handled with care. Sometimes it takes three or four men to handle a single case."

Capt. Broderick is a modest man. His 19 years' police service is "not long in this game," he says.

He is 39 years old, tall and good-looking, likes fishing and hunting and is building a home across the Potomac in Arlington.

Magnets Get Metal Stop Fire in Cotton

By The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—A device known as the magnetic separator, which gleans bits of metal from the cotton as the fiber comes from opened bales, is one of the cotton industry's newest safeguards against fire, the Cotton Mills Information Service reports.

The device has been installed in a number of the cotton mills in the Carolinas, and is credited with cutting to a minimum the threat of fires touched off by metallic sparks.

An astonishing amount of metallic objects are found in bales of cotton—nails, tacks, screws, hooks, wigs and the like.

TIME FOR DECISION

Sense Is Talked at Last

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON, March 14—A significant but little noticed event occurred last week in the senate. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts delivered a well-weighed and carefully thought out speech urging early congressional action to rebuild the government from top to bottom. He admitted the gross inefficiency and confusion of the present governmental structure. What is even more important, he admitted the almost total ignorance now prevailing as to the government's real problems of organization, personnel recruitment, coordination and administration. And he asked for early approval of the parallel bills offered by himself and Representative Clarence Brown of Ohio, setting up a special commission to ascertain all the facts and propose a complete overhauling of the government, in structure and in detail.

It showed the way the wind is blowing that such highly divergent members of the senate as Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Claude Pepper of Florida joined in approving what Lodge had to say. The truth is that the congress, committed to budget cutting, is gradually awakening to its almost total ignorance of the governmental facts of life. The budget cutters are like blind men pruning a jungle. There seems to be a good chance, therefore that the more realistic, long-range approach of Lodge and Brown will be adopted at this session.

Significant Sign

Equally important is the evidence that interest in the governmental facts of life is also growing apace at the other end of Pennsylvania avenue, within the administration. It was extremely significant, for example, that one of George C. Marshall's first acts in his new office was to agree to the appointment of a permanent secretary, who would attend and record the weekly meetings between the secretaries of state, war and navy. This has an interesting background.

The federal government is now totally lacking any machinery to coordinate the making and administration of policy by all its many parts, except the person of the President himself. The need for such machinery was first pointed out in a confidential report which the joint chiefs of staff were bold enough to prepare last spring. During the war, all the chiefs of the American military establishment, including General Marshall, had been rather enviously impressed by the British government's unity of action and purpose. At the suggestion of Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, the joint chiefs therefore explored ways and means to achieve the same unity of action and purpose here. They came out with the recommendation that a cabinet or executive secretariat broadly in the British model should be established without delay.

Coordination Job

The duties of this secretariat were to be coordination of the whole process of policy making and administration, from securing studies of a new problem by all the interested governmental parties, through securing approval of an agreed policy on the highest levels and down to insuring parallel execution of the agreed policy by all agencies concerned. This was to be done, very naturally, under the direct control of the President. It was, in fact, to be a much needed elaboration of his functions.

The joint chiefs' memorandum got no attention at the time, one reason being Secretary of State James F. Byrnes's doubt as to its value. But Byrnes has now been replaced by one of the originators of the memorandum, and Marshall has already acted to put a part of the memorandum's recommendations into effect. The weekly meeting of the secretaries of state, war and navy is intended to coordinate foreign and national defense policy. It only lacked a secretariat to meet the whole requirement in this field. It is now to have a secretariat. Presumably, at the same time, steps will be taken to relate this new secretariat to the state-war-navy coordinating committee, which has the same purpose but is on a lower level.

At the White House also, progress is being made. The President's legal counsel, Clark Clifford, has been informally given the functions of secretary of the cabinet. For many reasons, the title has not been accorded to him. Yet in view the President's increasing habit of using his cabinet as a genuinely operative board of directors of the government, the fact that Clifford had the functions of a secretary of the cabinet is more significant than his lack of the title. In short, the over-all executive or cabinet secretariat which the joint chiefs originally recommended is both growing down from the White House and up from the departments.

Where Literacy Helps

During the New Guinea campaign our Air Corps learned that the native people there had been taught to read English so they could use their Bibles. Our airmen promptly flew over a battle area and dropped leaflets to warn the people that they were going to destroy that area with bombs. The natives fled to the hills.

After the bombs had been dropped, our infantry entered the area. They found the Japanese dead; but soon the natives began to come in from the hills. To the soldiers' amazement, the people welcomed them in English. "Why did you learn and speak English?" they asked. "What use is it to you out here in the jungles?"

One native replied: "We read your letters from heaven. They saved our lives. We would be dead now if we had not been able to read."

The Glocca Morra Mystery

The great "Where is Glocca Morra?" mystery arising from that song in "Finian's Rainbow," continues. Madeline MacDougall says it is a rock in Ireland where the fairies dance. Patrick Sullivan writes:

Dear Hi—I note with interest your item in reference to the controversy about the location of the town of Glocca Morra. Frankly I doubt very much if such a place exists inasmuch as the name doesn't make sense or have a meaning. All places named in Ireland have a definite meaning which is applicable to that particular location. However, it is possible the name may be a corruption of Cloca Mora, which could be the name for a Dun or Rath, and would be what we would call a fort. Cloca Mora means large stones, quite plentiful in Ireland and especially so in the immediate vicinity of a fort."

Fried Lion

By TRUMAN TWILL

Editorial writers and jungle-telegraph columnists are thumbing recipe books to learn how to fry a British lion. They say there isn't much time. The beast is glassy-eyed and staggering toward the abattoir. The United States, they predict, licking their lips, is going to deep-freeze the lion's component parts and eat them one by one.

We doubt it.

We don't believe the British lion has the slightest intention of letting himself get fried. If the editorial writers and columnists are going to wait for the beast to die they'd better have plenty of macaroni and cheese on hand.

Wise guys have waited for the lion to die before—and have been stood up. Things are different this time; those awful socialists are in control, the exchequer is bare, the people are bushed. But one thing that never changes is the British will to survive, the stoutest thing of its kind. It has been driving the lion's critics slug-nutty for centuries. Every time they had the beast wobbling, he shook his mane and declared, "Not yet."

Don't let the disintegration of the British empire fool you, boys. The British are leading from strength, not weakness, when they get rid of financial and political responsibility for India, Greece and Palestine. They are casting off liabilities—what happened to empires like Spain that hung on too long, and what happened to smart operators like Switzerland and Sweden that knew when to let go.

There is a time for letting go, as well as a time for grabbing hold. The British are letting go. The Americans are grabbing hold. Because Americans can't imagine themselves doing anything without divine inspiration, they think this is their rendezvous with Destiny, that Great Britain is washed-up and a has-been.

But people who remember history aren't so sure about the latter half of the proposition. The United States is going to grab hold. It is going to grab the nettle, the hot potato and the bear by the tail. But that doesn't necessarily mean that Great Britain is to be pitied. Off the record of its performance in the past, the lion is still the favorite for the long pull. His will to survive gives him the nod.

We ask the pardon of the heavy thinkers for stepping out of character to point this out. We hated to think of those fellows getting their mouths all set for fried lion and having to be satisfied with the vegetable plate.

Evangelist's Sermon Taken from Hebrews

The message of Rev. Russell Boaz of Youngstown at the Greenwood Evangelical United Brethren church revival service last night was based on Hebrews, 12 4 "Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin" He declared, 'Few of us are acquainted by experience with the suffering and scars of the great cloud of witnesses portrayed in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews According to the text, we have no right to be numbered with them We have not grasped the awfulness of sin, and until we do we will not resist it unto blood'

'Sin is something that we cannot fool with, it blasts and destroys man; it blights the land and often casts a shadow over Heaven itself Portraying the 'consuming power" of the atomic bomb, he added 'but sin is worse minute to start with, but immeasurably destructive to the soul

'Sin is the basic cause of death sorrow, tears and all of the suffering which humanity shares Jesus wept over Jerusalem primarily because religious people were unmoved by the awfulness of sin'

ASK EXTENSION OF ROUTE 95

Marion and LaRue Groups Map Plans for Improving Highway.

Steps to extend state route 95 west from LaRue to Mt. Victory were taken last night in a joint meeting of the highway committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce and the LaRue Business Men's association. The meeting was held in McMahan's restaurant in LaRue.

Plans for a second meeting, which will include representatives from LaRue, Mt Victory, Belle Center and Marion were made, although no meeting date was set

Presiding last night was Dwight Sager, president of the LaRue Business Men's association He appointed a highway committee to represent the LaRue association in future meetings It includes Harry Boyd, chairman; Andrew Ford and Joseph Appleteller. The committee plans to meet with the Mt Victory Lions club in the near future to discuss the proposal further.

To Ask State Action

After the joint meeting of Marion, LaRue, Mt. Victory and Belle Center delegates an appeal is expected to be made to the state highway department asking that the project be included in its future highway program.

Marion delegates at last night's meeting included Dallas Harruff, chairman of the Chamber's highway committee, William Ehrich, Walter Grumbiat, and Howard Geer committee members, Robert T. Mason, Chamber president and Louis E Michel, Chamber secretary

Invited to the meeting but unable to attend were Walter W. Johnson, Marion county engineer, and David Liggett of Belle Center, state senator.

Farmers Cite Difficulties

Several farmers living west of LaRue were present and told the group of the difficulty they now have in getting to LaRue. State route 95 ends at LaRue and only a county road extends to Mt. Victory which lies approximately eight miles to the west Belle Center in Logan county lies west of Mt Victory

LaRue delegates also stated that during the summer season the lack of good road west of LaRue presented a problem to eastern Ohio tourists enroute to Indian Lake

SCHOOL PAY

39 to 60 per cent, junior and senior high school principals, from 25 to 39 per cent, special teachers, from 28 to 59 per cent, elementary teachers, approximately 42 5 per cent and junior and senior high school teachers, approximately 42 5 per cent and junior and senior high school teachers, approximately 35.3 per cent

In figuring the teachers' averages, the committee reported it picked 11 elementary and 11 junior and senior high school teachers at random.

Other action considered by the federation at its Tuesday night's meeting included the passage of a resolution to take steps to discourage further emergency certification of persons as teachers who are under-trained

Wording of Resolution

The resolution reads as follows "Whereas, the continuous granting of certificates to under-trained persons to teach in the public schools of Ohio is undermining the educational efficiency, and whereas the general public is becoming more and more of the belief that almost any one can qualify to teach, and whereas, this will eventually destroy all efforts to restore well qualified teaching personnel, resolved by the Marion Federation of Teachers that steps be taken to discourage further emergency certification of those persons admittedly under-trained"

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Dr Clyde Hissong, state director of education, and to Harold Bowers, in charge of issuing teachers' certificates

Miss Helen Atchinson, president of the federation, presided at the meeting. Next meeting April 14 will feature the election of officers and on May 2 the federation will hold its fifth anniversary dinner at First Reformed church

Other members of the investigating committee included T D Bain, George Wilson and John Gries, all of Harding High school, and Stuart Shipman, principal of the Mark Street and Forest Lawn schools.

FORMER TREASURY MEN URGE TAX CUT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 14—Two former undersecretaries of the treasury urged the house ways and means committee today to go ahead with plans to slice federal income taxes 20 per cent across the board.

The witnesses—Roswell MaGill, lawyer and Columbia university professor, and John W. Hanes, both of New York—served in the treasury in the administration of the late President Franklin D Roosevelt.

Their views, given the committee which is holding hearings on the tax cutting measure sponsored by Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), directly opposed those of Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, given yesterday.

MaGill told the committee that tax relief is necessary to "keep the American system funcuoning" by renewing incentive for business ventures.

Hanes said that "we can continue to disregard the interest of the taxpayer only with the greatest peril," as he supported the cut estimated to benefit taxpayers by $3,500,000,000

They testified after the Republican-controlled committee turned down, 12 to 5, (a proposal of Democrats to open the hearings to any witnesses who desired to testify

The Republicans voted solidly against the motion offered by Rep Lynch (D-NY), who was supported by four other Democrats.

Scientist Gives Hint France Knows How To Produce A-Bomb

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 14—Frederic Joliot-Curie, ranking French expert on atomic energy, implied today that France too, knows how to manufacture atomic bombs

In a highly technical article written for the magazine United Nations World, the French scientist, one-time assistant to Mme Marie Curie, declared that the principle of the atomic bomb is "simple"

Without specifically saying in cold black type that France has the "know-now" to build atomic bomos, Joliot-Curie, nevertheless gave the impression that France can turn out atomic bomos too And he added

"We are thus approaching the third stage' that of practical application of atomic energy to improve living standards of mankind"

A digest of his article issued by the United Nations World said that "France today has the know-how to build atomic bombs according to Dr. Frederic Joliot-Curie"

The text of the article, however, does not include that specific quotation Yet, the article is filled with obvious implications that France knows the secret of manufacturing atomic bombs but does not have the necessary materials

American and British scientists who are expert in atomic energy developments are of the opinion that only the United States has the real "know-how" to build atomic bomos and that other countries are still in the experimental stage of atomic research chairmen in conflict with the union' and that the unionists were not being "sporting" in seeking job protection.

Herbert concluded his conference with Anderson by suggesting that the union official bring the matter before the Ohio legislature

Anderson said the union's chief objection to the governor's suggestion was that before protective legislation would be enacted most of the union's members would be fired under the political spoils system

Herbert acknowledged "that probably was true," Anderson added

The union also based much of its grievance upon the fact, Anderson said, that no charges of any kind were lodged against dismissed members by highway officials ordering their discharge

About 45 men picketed the highway garage at Chillicothe but nearly half the normal working force of 100 state and county employes got inside before lines were set up, Gagage Supt Calvin Morrison reported.

Question of Freedom Involved In Proposal To Ban Red Party

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 14—The proposal to outlaw the Communist party in this country is bound to make men think.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenback suggested it. Congress may act on it, to outlaw the party or reject the idea.

James Marlow

This proposal involves citizens' rights: freedom of speech and peaceful assembly, guaranteed by the Constitution.

Freedom of speech is not unlimited. You can not dash into a theater and scream "fire" without running the risk of being jailed for endangering lives.

And libel laws protect one citizen against unjust charges made by another to damage him.

But, otherwise, free speech is so much a part of American living, that Americans are apt to accept it as a natural thing.

No Opposition in Russia

In Russia, where the Communists took over by revolution, there is a dictatorship with strong limits on freedom. The Communist party in Russia does not permit organized political opposition.

There is nothing in the constitution of the American Communist party which indicates it wants to do anything but come to power peacefully, by democratic elections.

But critics of the American Communists say that they want to come to power here by force and violence and then set up a dictatorship.

From here on is a boiled down account of an actual argument between two Americans who took time out to think of freedom because of the Schwellenbach proposal.

Joe: Do you think the Communist party should be outlawed?

Jack: No. It might drive the Commies underground and make them harder to find and watch. Besides, they have a right to say what they want. It's a right, a freedom we all have.

Reds Are Legal Party

It's certainly a freedom political parties have and the Communist party is a political party.

Joe: But do you think any one has the right to urge the overthrow of the government by force?

Jack: Of course no. Any one who does can be jailed. There's a law on the books against that.

Joe: Do you think the Communist party has a chance of coming to power by a vote of the people?

Jack: No. The American people won't go for Communism.

Joe: All right. So right now you don't think the Commies will ever have a chance of winning by elections.

But just suppose 10 years from now we have a terrific depression and the American people, desperately anxious to get out of it, should elect the Communists because they might have what looked like a good program.

Will Bow To Majority

Jack: If the majority of the people wanted it, it would be all right with me. That would be democratic.

Joe: But just remember: Everywhere the Commies have taken over, they've set up a dictatorship to crush opposition. Such a dictatorship here would mean an end to freedom as we know it.

And it could happen here. So by letting them have freedom now to grow strong, you may be making it possible for them later to wipe out the kind of freedom you gave them.

Jack: When you put it that way, I don't know.

Joe: Why don't you know? You talk of freedom. But what kind? Look back on what you said.

Right now you're all for letting the Commies have freedom, but really only because they're too weak now to be a danger now.

Freedom Expensive Luxury

But when you think they might some day win control, you're not so sure you don't want to wipe can't wipe out our freedom later. out their freedom now so they

So you're treating freedom as a luxury: You give it to the weak but not to the strong. What kind of freedom is that?

Jack: But I just thought of something: If we take away the Commies' freedom now by outlawing their party, we may be laying dangerous groundwork for the future. I mean:

If we once do this, some day and for some reason the Democrats (or the Republicans) may have such control of the government by elections that they'll outlaw all other political parties.

That could happen, and, if it did, we'd have one party rule and a dictatorship.

Joe and Jack didn't find an answer. You try it.

RAISE INSURANCE ON THREE GALION SCHOOLS

Board Moves To Keep Up With Present Valuations.

Special to The Star

GALION, March 14—Fire insurance on three Galion school buildings, the Senior and Junior High schools and the East Elementary school, was raised at the March meeting of the Galion board of education, Wednesday night. Additional insurance was taken out on the buildings in order to keep up with present valuations, board members said.

The insurance will be purchased through the Galion Insurors' agency, comprised of all insurance agents of the city. The board arrived at figures after conferring with two representatives of the agency, W. L. Walker and F. E Firestone.

A report of the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators which was held March 1 to 6, at Atlantic City, was given by M. A. Povenmire, superintendent of Galion schools, who attended the sessions.

The board also heard the financial report given by Clerk Isabel Monroe which showed an overdraft in the general fund of $6,088, a balance in the bond fund of $17,933, and another balance of $728 in the lunch fund.

Rental of the East school building to the First Evangelical United Brethren church, for a series of services during Holy Week, was granted by the board.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS FOG SETTLES ON MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 14—Share owners, apparently still in a foreign affairs fog, continued on the selling side in today's market and many leaders touched new lows for the year or longer with losses of fractions to 2 or more points.

Comforting to the bulls was the fact that offerings generally were far from urgent.

Wall Street admittedly was confused over President Truman's new foreign policy although professionals were more cautious than bearish. The prospect of expanding loans to Europe tended to chill hopes for tax relief and a certain amount of liquidation was attributed to this factor.

In the falling division were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Pennsylvania Railroad, Chesapeake and Ohio, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Gypsum, Eastman Kodak, DuPont, Union Carbide, American Can Anaconda, American Smelting and International Harvester.

AP Head Named Chief Of Press Freedom Group

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 14—Kent Cooper, executive director and general manager of The Associated Press, has been appointed chairman of the world freedom of the press committee of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

Cooper has been an advocate of world press freedom for 23 years, and worked to obtain the inclusion of a freedom of the press provision in the Versailles treaty, although the provision was denied. He succeeded in having freedom of the press declarations inserted in both the Republican and Democratic platform of 1944, and his work resulted in adoption of a congressional resolution calling for such freedom.

15 BOUTS LIKELY IN GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS TONIGHT

Weight Classes from Heavy To Paper On Tap in Wind-Up Meet

By ART MYERS

Approximately 15 fights in weight divisions from heavyweight to paperweight are lined up for tonight in the finals of the Golden Gloves tournament at the armory starting at 8.

An epidemic of flu forced a few boys to abstain from fighting in the semi-finals Wednesday night, but some of them expect to be on hand for finals, Joe Yannitell, Y's Men's club matchmaker, said.

If they show up healthy, this will result in doubling up in some of the weight classes, and some boys may have to fight twice.

Winners in A.A.U. bouts tonight will be eligible for the state championships to be held at Columbus March 24 and 25.

Matchmaking Difficult

Yannitell emphasized that in amateur fights a matchmaker never knows who he will have available until the night of the bouts, but on the basis of Wednesday night's results, and from what the boys who were inactive for one reason or another Wednesday indicated, this is about how the finals will shape up.

In the heavyweight class it will be an all-Delaware affair, with Ward Watkins taking on Pat Patterson. Watkins won last year's lightheavyweight crown from Patterson in the finals and will be out to repeat. He decisively decisioned Russell Bartlett of Carey Monday night.

Dale Adams, Detroit Free Press sports reporter came here Wednesday night to look over Watkins for his boss, Lyle Smith, Free Press sports editor. Disappointed Wednesday when Watkins did not fight, he indicated he would stay over until tonight to see the promising Delaware boy.

In the lightheavyweight final, it looks like Russ Wilson against Ernest Penn, both of Delaware. Penn weighed in Wednesday night but was not matched. Wilson decisioned Tom Vlachos of Marion Monday night.

Gallonite Likely in Finals

In the middleweight class, it should be Charley Farina, sensational new Galion slugger, against the hard-punching Jim Wood of Delaware. Farina has KO'd two Delaware boys to get into the finals. Wood TKO'd Bob Chapman of Marion Wednesday night. Someone should be prone before this one is over.

A four-way contest is looming in the welterweight class. This class was stymied Wednesday night when Jack Draper of Marion showed up a bit under the weather. He expects to be able to fight tonight, however. Other boys in this class are Bud Craig, who scored a KO over Bob Leigy of Marion Monday night; Jim Ward, who decisioned Donald Allen of LaRue; and Homer Moore, who has weighed in but has not yet been matched. All except Draper are from Delaware.

The lightweight crown should go either to Joe Neidig of West Mansfield or Briss Craig of Delaware. Marion's survivor in this class, Bill Cochran, is reported out of action with pneumonia. Neidig has a decision and Craig a TKO to his credit.

Lawrence Strahm of Carey has already cinched the featherweight title. The only other survivor in this division is Dick Obenour, who is only 14 and cannot compete for an AAU title. Strahm may fight an exhibition tonight, officials said.

In the bantamweight class it looks like George Earhart, 117-pound sensation of the Wednesday night's card against Harold Carpenter who has two workmanlike decisions to his credit. Earhart will be watched with interest after his KO of Kenny Chevalier in Wednesday's semi-finals and he will be up against a rugged boy and good boxer in Carpenter.

Harold Knapp and Earl Foster, both of Marion, and Al Treisch of Galion still survive in the bantamweight class.

Undefeated paperweights are Bob Hunt, Gene Coulson, Bob Sherman, George Bird, Jack Davis, Kenny Smith, and John Hopkins.

Cincy Reds To Be Hard-Swinging Club, Says Giles

BY FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla.—"The Cincinnati Reds will be a different ball club this year, and you can quote me on that," said Warren C. Giles, president of the Ohio entry in the National League.

But that was only the beginning of a conversation which saw Giles, usually one of the most placid officials in the major leagues, turn on the heat. He first sat there as though the talk floating around the room was correct — several men were picking the Reds to finish deep in the pennant race. But as he sat he not only listened but thumbed through the National League Green Book of facts and figures.

Then, without leaving his seat, Giles literally hit the ceiling and pointed out how the Reds were improved over their sixth place club of the previous season.

"Now it's my turn," said Giles. "Bill McKechnie was a grand manager but he played for the single run, usually depending on pitching for a victory. It's going to make a big difference with Johnny Neun managing the team. He plans to bring American League baseball to Cincinnati and in the other league they play for those big innings.

"Why last year we lost 41 ball games by one run, a new high for us. In 1940 we won 40 games by one run. That year we won the pennant.

Three additions to the Cincinnati roster who are counted on to bolster the club. Augie Galan and Frank Baumholtz, outfielders, are at left, and rookie hurler Ed Erautt at right.

"So the Phillies pick us near the bottom. Well, if we had just three more runs last year we would have finished ahead of them. They beat us by two games for fifth place.

"People had been asking a long time 'when are you going to get a .300 hitting outfielder?' Well now we have one in Augie Galan of Brooklyn. Galan was one of the seven outfielders in the league to bat .300 or better."

Gabe Paul, Giles' assistant, then came to the aid of his boss by furnishing some additional data on "what happened to the Reds?"

"The type of ball Johnny Nuen will have the Reds playing this season will increase our team batting average by 10 percentage points," said Paul. "Why the Reds were in fourth place last summer when we lost our two most important players, third baseman Grady Hatton and shortstop Eddie Miller. They were to us like Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter were to the Cardinals.

"Hatton suffered a hairline kneecap fracture and Miller hurt his shoulder. We lost nine straight and during the last two months won only 20 while losing 39."

Besides Galan filling a gap in the outfield, the Reds are banking on three rookies. Two of them, pitcher Ed Erautt and Frankie Baumholtz, an outfielder, may crash the lineup. The other, Ted Kluszewski, brought two gloves along and is willing to play first base or the outfield.

Erautt is a six foot right hander from Portland, Ore. His fast ball gave him 20 wins with Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League last year. He is 22 and appears ready. His brother, Joe, 25, is at Lakeland hoping to stick with the Detroit Tigers as a catcher.

Erautt got his start in baseball by succeeding Johnny Pesky, Red Sox shortstop, as the Portland

Hardin County Cage League Alters Rules

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., March 14—The Hardin county basketball league composed of the eight class B schools in the county will revise its rules for next year. Formerly the eight teams played a home and home schedule with the other teams in the league.

League officials meeting in Kenton changed the rule so that only one game need be played with each of the other schools. This will allow the county teams to schedule more out-of-the-county teams and encourage a better brand of basketball, officials stated. The eight teams are: Forest, Dunkirk, Dola, Alger, Roundhead, McGuffey Ridgeway Mt. Victory.

Dinner for Harding Cagers Set Tuesday

A dinner will be given in the home economics room at the school Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. for members of this year's Harding varsity and reserve cage teams.

Sterling Geeseman, Ohio Wesleyan line coach and cage official will be the speaker.

Monograms will be awarded and attendance will be limited to persons who worked with the team during the past season.

5 Net Teams Move One Notch Nearer Class B Championship

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O., March 14—Five teams were a notch nearer the state high school class B high school basketball championship today, following victories last night.

Qualifying for regional championship play were Columbiana and Lowellville at Kent, New Knoxville and Gibsonburg at Bowling Green, and Plain City at Springfield.

The scores:

Columbiana 64, Springfield Township 46.

Lowellville 59, Strasburg 54.

New Knoxville 45, Holgate 28.

Gibsonburg 37, Troy-Luckey 35.

Plain City 35, Bradford 31.

Columbiana will meet Lowellville, and New Knoxville will play Gibsonburg Saturday night for berths in the state championship finals March 20, 21 and 22. Plain City will meet the winner of tonight's Lockland Wayne-Phillipsburg fray for the Springfield regional title and a state championship berth.

Colds and influenza were indirectly responsible for Holgate's defeat by New Knoxville. Minus the services of six foot, six inch Ed Pepper, Holgate (22-1) fought gamely against a classy New Knoxville quint that never led by more than a point or two until the start of the third quarter. Behind 18 to 17 at the half, New Knoxville spurted into a lead on five straight set shots by Dick DuBois and stayed in front.

The Gibsonburg-Troy-Luckey contest was decided in the final second. Jock Shumaker, Gibsonburg substitute forward, canned a field goal just as the final gun sounded in a game that saw the lead change hands 14 times in the final half. Big Len Shull's 15 points and Gibsonburg's ability to tally 11 straight free throws in the second half decided the fray.

Plain City was paced to victory at Springfield by Kenny Jordon's 14 points. Bradford trailed 21 to 13 at the half.

A capacity crowd of 5,000 fans watched Columbiana lead Springfield township all the way at Kent, except once during the third period when the teams deadlocked at 38-all.

Dick Berryman and Don Esswein of Columbiana each scored 17 points.

Lowellville could thank big Joe Stephenson's accuracy for its triumph at Kent. Stephenson bagged 20 points to Strasburg's Tom Haswell's 19 and sparked a final period rally.

Cleveland Pitcher Gromek Injured

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 14—Cleveland Indians' Manager Lou Boudreau had another personnel problem on his hands today with the loss of pitcher Steve Gromek, who injured his right knee in an exhibition game with the New York Giants at Bisbee yesterday.

Gromek retired in the third inning complaining of a sharp pain in his right knee. He returned to Tucson for X-ray pictures.

Outfielder Hank Edwards, who dislocated a bone in his right arm earlier in the week, probably will leave for Cleveland in a few days to undergo further treatment at Cleveland Clinic hospital.

The Giants won yesterday's exhibition by a 17 to 7 count, blasting three Tribe hurlers for 15 hits.

After today's game with the Giants here, a majority of the Indians will leave the Tucson training base until March 31. Boudreau will take 37 players to California for games with the Chicago White Sox, Chicago Cubs, Seattle, Portland, Los Angeles and Hollywood. The balance of the squad will remain behind in Tucson to continue training under coach George Susce.

LaMotta-Bell "Go" on WMRN Tonight

Middleweight Jacob LaMotta (above), the Bull of the Bronx, and Tommy Bell, spectacular Youngstown, Ohio, welterweight who has shivered the timbers of many a foe, clash in the ten-round feature event at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Punches roll off LaMotta like water off a duck's back but Bell made Jake give with everything in the book to win decisions in their two previous bouts. Bell's best weapon is a right hand counter punch which is very deceptive because it's lightning-fast.

Jawbone Jake is so tough that no top-ranking middleweight really cares to cross gloves with him. He packs plenty of wham in his wallops and is particularly effective as a body puncher. This should be a whale of a fight right from the starting bell.

CINCY REDS

clubhouse boy. His dad knew Oscar Vitt, Hollywood pilot, and Vitt gave the boy a chance in 1942. In 1946 Erautt fanned 234 batters in 290 innings and toiled 26 complete games.

Baumholtz starred for the Cleveland Rebels in the Basketball Association of America this winter and shows exceptional promise as a hitter despite the fact that at 161 pounds he is about 13 pounds underweight. The 27-year-old former three-sport star at Ohio U., is slated to play center field. He hit .343 for Columbia, S. C., in the class A Sally League last season after serving four years in the Navy.

Kluszewski is built like Lou Gehrig although in early practice he moved around faster than Gehrig did when Lou broke in. If he can play first he has a great future, says Paul, for he seems to be able to hit a ball out of the park.

Kluszewski played end at Indiana U. for two years and the Reds signed him right off the campus. Ted getting a bonus of "over $10,000," for falling in line. In his first year in organized ball last season he led the Sally league, hitting .332 for Columbia. He drove in 87 runs in 90 games and hit 11 homers.

Built Like Tarzan

He has the hands and forearms of a Tarzan. Charley Keller of the Yankees, the original King Kong, has large arms but Kluszewski's hold a slight edge. Built like a fire plug, Ted packs 205 pounds on a 6-2 frame. He is 22. The only question mark against his name is experience. If he's not ready he may wind up with Syracuse with whom the Reds have a working agreement.

The Reds are well equipped with pitching. Probable starters besides Erautt are Bucky Walters, Johnny Vander Meer, Joe Beggs and Ewell Blackwell, the freshman sensation of last year. Blackwell led the National League in shutouts with six. He won nine and lost 13 after three years in the Army.

Ray Mueller, Ray Lamanna and Al Lakeman again will handle the catching with Mueller, a real workhorse, hogging the chest protector. Besides Galan and Baumholtz, Ed Lukon is down for the outfield.

Grady Hatton, another star rookie of last year, is certain to be back at third base but the rest of the infield appears unsettled. Miller may not be back at short. Battling for the position are Ben Zientara, whose 289 led the team in hitting, and Kermit Wahl, Lonnie Frey will have competition in Bob Adams or Zientara around second base.

First base is open with Bert Haas and Charley Kress engaging Kluszewski in the three-cornered fight. Haas has the experience but this spring the Reds are looking for hitters.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"OH, Uncle Dicky!" Mary's voice was ecstatic. "Don't waste time in apologizing! It's so sweet to know that you're glad I'm home, and not sore at me."

"I never was sore at you for the fraction of a second," Dicky told her. "I was just scared out of the few senses I have left in my old age by your sudden appearance. I couldn't imagine what had happened, so I began to hurl verbal brickbats at you."

Impish Grin

He shot a side glance at me, and grinned impishly.

"Your aunt could enlighten you fully on that subject," he told her.

"She already has," Mary said demurely, and my husband frowned theatrically at me.

"I said you could," he declaimed. "I never believed you would."

"She had to tell me," Mary said, "or else she'd have had a teary, gibbering baboon on her hands. But enough of me! I need your advice. My papa-in-law is off his chain and bellowing, and I'm scared to death to see Noel. I'm afraid he'll be broadcasting bellows too."

"You know better—" Dicky began, but I held up a silencing hand.

"All this is beside the point," I said. "I have just discovered that this child has a temperature of over a degree, and her pulse is rapid."

Terrified Speculation

"Good gosh!" Dicky ejaculated, and I knew that already he was engaged in terrified speculation as to what even so slight a deviation from the normal might mean to Mary, balanced so delicately between health and illness.

"I don't believe it's serious," I went on, "but you know as well as I do that we can't take any chances on Mary. But the next thing is, where are we going to house her?"

"I suppose I ought to go down to our own apartment," Mary began tentatively, but I saw that her eye held something very near terror.

"If you had no temperature, and no rapid pulse," I told her, "your uncle and I would march you right down there, because Noel has the right to see you first."

"But your being ill is something else again," I went on. "I'm not going to leave you while you're in this condition. I'm going to get you to bed and send for a physician."

"Oh-h!" Mary gasped. "Not one of those sawbones with M.D. tacked on to his collar or his coat tails! He'll send me back to the sanitarium!"

There was real terror in her eyes now, and Dicky, who had put her back on the couch, sat down beside her and took both her hands in his.

"Listen, Brat!" he said. "I'm on the job now, your old uncle, and nobody's going to make you do anything you don't want to do until you're strong again. I'm reserving the right, then, to apply the old hair brush where it's most needed, but just now you're going back to the sanitarium only over my dead body."

"And mine," I said determinedly. "But, Mary, I am adamant about the physician. You must see one."

Santa Claus Paunch

"Well," Mary capitulated, "what about that darling old Dr. Twitchell? You know—the one with the slight Santa Claus paunch? I don't mind seeing him."

"That's splendid!" I said. "I'll telephone him in a minute. But the next thing is, where I'm going to put you to bed. I think I'll take you down to our living apartment."

"Oh, no!" Mary cried in quick alarm. "I might have the flu, or something catching!"

"If you have," I told her calmly, 'that apartment is made up of two distinct ones. I can shut off one bedroom and bath completely from the others."

"There's some one at the door," Dicky said, as the knocker sounded. Leaving him holding his niece's hand, I sped to open it, and saw the daughter of Olga Veritzen, the former Princess Olina of Transvania.

Henry Van Dyke's Story Related to Bible Class

"The Story of the Other Wise Man," by Henry Van Dyke, was related and illustrated by 40 colored slides by Dr. F. A. Stengel before the Wednesday Noon Bible Class at the Y.M.C.A. at their regular meeting.

Dr. Stengel reviewed the famous story which deals with a fourth wise man, who, missing a rendezvous, failed to join the other three and see the Christ child. He used jewels which he had intended to give the Christ child to help unfortunates. When he finally sees Christ, it is at the Crucifixion, and he hears the word, "Inasmuch as ye have done unto the least of these, ye have done unto me."
